

CAREER COUNSELLING

Description of the scheme

Career Counselling & Placement Training

The Academic Programme Committee (APC) conducts placement-training sessions for the junior batch students before the commencement of the placement season. Mock Groups Discussions and Personal Interviews are conducted by APC to prepare the junior batch students for their Summer Internship Process (SIP) Interview and give a constructive feedback for their SIP preparation. GDs are based on current business topics and these discussions help the students to understand relevant topics from their GD point of view. Training has also been provided to the students about how to perform effectively in a GD. Constructive feedback also has been provided to the students about their performance in the GD-PI process.

Mock GDPI

The most crucial aspects of the placement process are the Group Discussion (GD) and Personal Interaction (PI). In order to ensure that the students are well prepared for the placement scenario, APC conducts mock GDPI sessions. This primes the students before the SIP process and gives them the valuable insights needed to directionally work towards performing well in these scenarios. The mock GDPI is conducted in two phases. This not only gives more exposure to the students, but also gives the opportunity of facing possible GDPI situations for multiple specializations. As many students are often confused by the specialization choice they should make, these sessions prove to be helpful in their decision making process. GD topics are carefully picked in alignment with the latest current affairs. The PI is conducted in an environment closely in tune with the actual process. Additionally, valuable feedback is given to the students regarding how they can improve themselves. This has proven to be a highly useful and enriching experience.
